

Personal Financial Literacy

We are helping people modify their money management skills so they can make a better financial future, by making better decisions for the future.

If you're looking to create a brighter tomorrow for yourself and your family, its time to further your education with the MakingCents Financial Literacy Program, A 12 chapter Self Study course on money, debt, and credit.

The course is divided into three self-study sections: Understanding Money, Understanding Debt, and Understanding Credit. Each chapter has easy to read study lessons that will focus on a specific topic. All self-study chapters are written in an easy to understand format with information that provides a stress free way to study.

Each self-study chapter is followed by a five-question practice quiz. All 12 chapters present learning elements and concepts that help increase financial awareness. At the end of the course there is a final exam that has 60 multiple-choice and true or false questions to be completed.

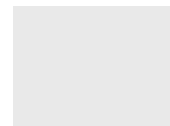

This program includes a completion certificate, and graduation report that can be sent to the credit bureaus to enhance your credit report.
